

Kimberly's Media Kit

While all Christian music or Gospel music has a positive message, Kimberly Williams' music offers a positive message and will stir your soul. It offers a message of hope, love, and compassion. Her powerful voice will uplift, inspire, and allow you to feel the hope she is trying so hard to convey to her listeners.

Kimberly Williams was born in MS and was raised by her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cube Burrage and her mother Martha Burrage-Sims. Kimberly grew up an only child, but often had cousins around. Kimberly was often teased, when young, by older cousins because she constantly hummed and walked around singing. At the tender age of five Kimberly sang her first solo at church, after convincing her grandmother she was not afraid. After her first performance it never stopped. Her powerful voice, earned her the name Songbird and she was often referred to as "the little girl with the big voice". Kimberly performed in local school contests, church events, funerals, and pageants. In 1988 Kimberly participated in the Ebonette pageant in her hometown of Louisville, MS, and won the overall pageant (700.00 dollar scholarship) and the talent award. Kimberly went to Mississippi State University (MSU) after graduating High School in 1988 and auditioned to become a member of the Black Voices, a gospel choir at MSU. Kimberly was a leader of several songs and was a member throughout her college career. After college Kimberly continued to sing in a local church choir, but ultimately put music on hold. In 1992 Kimberly was married to her supportive husband Harold Williams. In 1997 Kimberly's biggest fan went to be with the Lord, her grandmother. This was a dark time and during this time Kimberly started to write songs and dream of singing again on a larger scale. After moving to Birmingham, AL in 1998, Kimberly started singing again and quickly became a member of Faith Chapel Christian Center and the choir. In 2000 Kimberly became a mother but continued to want to sing and spread the gospel throughout the world. Kimberly started to sing more on her own at weddings, funerals, and other local events. In 2010 Kimberly recorded a project with Mr. Lendale Young. Still unsure of exactly where she wanted her music career to go, she continued to sing locally and pursued a master's degree in Mental Health Counseling. While pursuing this degree Kimberly worked as a licensed social worker in Hospice. During this time Kimberly often found herself singing to patients as they took their last breath. "I found this so rewarding and I am humbled for these patients to have my voice be the last voice they heard on earth".

In 2016 Kimberly started to work with Mr. Anthony Williams, musician, producer. During this time Kimberly recorded He Loves Me Still (2016) and in 2017 released Only A Prayer Away (song and music video). Both songs were written by Kimberly. In October 2017 Kimberly was in the stage play Broken with Murray Productions and performed original music and played the role of Ella. In 2018 Kimberly started to work with Micah Braxton, musician, producer and recorded He's Coming Back, a song in which she collaborated with local gospel rap artist Preacha Boi. Most recently Kimberly finished her EP Testimony, which includes songs: Testimony, I Run To You, Keeper of My Soul, and He's Here. Kimberly is proud of this project and collaborated with Pastor Jeremy Wallace for the arrangements of He's Here and Keeper of my Soul. In 2018 Kimberly performed in several showcases: Shannon G. showcase in Anniston, AL, Gospel Choice Music Awards Showcase in Atlanta, GA and The Strength of A Woman concert in Birmingham,

AL, hosted by Vivian Murray of Murray Productions. Kimberly was also interviewed on the Tammie Tubbs show in Tupelo, MS and was the featured guest artist on the Kay Bain Morning Show in 2018. This artist has been nominated for three Gospel Choice Music Awards: Artist of the year, Female Vocalist/Artist of the Year, and CD Project of the Year and was awarded female vocalist/artist of the Year 2019. In August 2019 Kimberly released her single Show Me You featuring the Artist Simply Amazing, who happens to be Kimberly's manager. Kimberly has been interviewed by several radio stations in the U.S. and internationally. Currently, Kimberly's music is being played on radio stations throughout the U.S.

Kimberly continues to perform at local churches and other venues where a gospel singer is needed. Kimberly has a private counseling practice: Kimberly Williams Counseling, LLC and often uses her gift of song to uplift and encourage clients.
